Whales and warthogs can never wear hats.
Weasels and white mice are afraid of cats.

Who thinks a walrus can warble a tune?
Maybe a woodpecker will fly to the moon.

Gray wolves are wise and wild and feared,
But wallabies just seem, well, kind of weird.

I wish to keep working, to give you more words,
But I want to chop wood to warm my poor birds.

Now read this rhyme both fast and slow,
And watch for the W words as you go.
